Disney sets up camp at Wanakita

MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

It's not quite High School Musical but it is causing quite a buzz at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Dozens of students have been taking part in a Walt Disney movie that's being filmed at YMCA Camp Wanakita and Camp Kilcoo this month.

The movie – the filming of which Walt Disney is trying to keep quiet – is a spin-off of the hugely popular High School Musical and its sequel. Camp Rock stars teen musical heartthrobs, the Jonas Brothers, and is about a girl who wants to attend a prestigious camp for aspiring rock musicians.

The two Highlands camps therefore play a starring role.

When the movie's production company first approached HHSS Principal Gary Brohman about having local high school students take part, he was dubious. He didn't want the students to be spending so much time out of class. But then, at the prompting of the movie company, he reconsidered his decision and came up with a compromise: arts and drama students could take part as a way of learning about career options.

Making a movie, the students have discovered, is a lesson in "hurry up and wait."

In order to film a 40-second sequence, three hours of prepa-

As the possibility of advanced uranium exploration inches closer and closer to the forests and properties of Highlands East, the public's concern is also inching forward — what about the environmental and health issues caused by the mining of uranium?

Some residents of Ontario are still up in arms about mining companies that have staked claims, explored the property, extracted the minerals, and bailed, leaving behind a mess. The track records of several mining companies aren't good.

Terry Fox fundraising passes the $100k mark

MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Fifteen years after the first Terry Fox Run in Haliburton, local participants went the extra mile.

Not only did Sunday's participants raise a record amount in pledges, but the $11,040 pushed the total fundraising figure past the $100,000 mark.

"That's awesome," said organizer Aggie Tose as participants finished the 5 km route.

"There are many reasons for each of us to be here today," she had told the crowd 45 minutes earlier. "I believe the biggest reason is that we choose hope. There is a quote Terry Fox would have liked: 'Once you choose hope, anything is possible.'"

She asked participants to take a moment to remember the late Gord Monk, a tireless volunteer who died of cancer last September. "He was a man who never lost hope. He is with us today, as always, smiling as if nothing was ever wrong."

The Minden Terry Fox Run was dedicated in his honour.

In the past few years, the annual fundraising total in Haliburton village has hovered around the $8,000 mark. The total monies earned since the first run in 1982 was $89,526.

Some cottagers got an early start on Sunday morning but most set off as a group shortly after 10, with young bicycle riders leading the way.

Lack of work permits leads to fines

Two Toronto area men have been fined $2,500 for working without a permit.

Dudley Hookong, 35, of Toronto, was fined $1,000 for constructing a trail on Crown land without a work permit. In a separate case, Jarvis Storm, 44, of Richmond Hill, was fined $1,500 for filling shore lands without a work permit.

Court was told that a conservation officer found an illegally constructed trail on Crown land. The following investigation found that Hookong had constructed the trail near his cottage on Koshlong Lake. Court also heard that, while on patrol, the conservation officer found an illegally constructed retaining wall and sand added to an existing beach at Storm's cottage on Esson Lake near the town of Wilberforce.

In addition to the fines, Hookong donated $500 and Storm donated $1,500 to the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association. The association is a non-profit group that carries out natural resources projects and provides educational opportunities in and around Haliburton County.

Koshlong and Esson Lakes are stocked with the unique "Haliburton Gold" strain of Lake Trout which are raised by the association. The donations will be earmarked for future fish stocking efforts.

Justice of the Peace Linda Kay heard these cases in the Ontario Court of Justice, Minden, on September 6, 2007.

Crown land includes the beds of most lakes and rivers and provides critical habitat for many species of plant and animal life. The ministry reminds the public that before working in or around water, they should contact their local ministry office to get the required permits.

Couple says 'I do' – twice

Fifty years after they eloped, Ed and Ginnie Muenzel plan a family wedding

MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

MARTHA PERKINS/Echo

Ed and Ginnie Muenzel are like a couple of newlyweds. The Cranberry Lake couple will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary by getting married again. The last time they got married they eloped. On September 23, their daughter Rita will walk Ed down the "aisle" of the Bonnie View Inn. Ginnie will be accompanied by their sons Ed and Dave.

Fifty years ago, Ed and Ginnie Muenzel were in such a hurry to get married that they eloped. It was the best way to avoid the disapproving looks of Ed's mother, who had made it clear that she didn't want her son to say "I do" to Ginnie.

The only other people at the wedding were a couple from the naval base near Maryland, where Ed was stationed. Today, the Muenzels have to struggle to even remember their names. "She was holding a crying baby – I do remember that," says Ginnie.

With their 50th anniversary approaching, the Cranberry Lake couple has decided that it is time for a more romantic version of their nuptials. Ginnie bought a pretty new dress – it's teal since she thinks she's beyond the age for wearing white – an,d on September 23, Ed and Ginnie are going to stand in front of the Rev. Harry Morgan and pledge their unwavering love to one another.

This time they won't have to worry about anyone thinking the marriage isn't going to last.

"Marriage is probably the hardest thing people have to do and the most pleasurable," says Ginnie. "It's hard to admit that you have to change some of the things you have to do. I had to change, Ed had to change. I think now we're more in a state of wedded bliss than at the beginning. The best things happen only with a lot of work."

Usually such a line would be an opportunity for Ed to make one of his funny quips. But his eyes mist over when he looks over at his bride of 50 years and says, "I still love her very much."

Ed and Ginnie weren't out of their teens when they first met in 1955 or 1956. He was born and raised in Buffalo where he got a job with the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company. The company (now known as A&P) was opening up a new store in Tonawanda, New York and he was sent to help out.

"I was working in the basement," he says, "and there was a conveyor belt that we'd use to send the groceries up to the main floor of the store. I thought I'd ride up."

When he emerged at the top of the conveyor belt, "there's this girl smelling like beer and cheese."

Ginnie was working behind the cheese counter, which also served as the place where people would bring their empty beer bottles. She might have been a bit startled to find this laughing young man delivering himself to her, but soon they got to talking. The company was hosting a staff picnic and since most of the men who worked in the store were from Buffalo, they didn't know any of their fellow staff members. Would Ginnie like to go with him?

And so their first date included a picnic, canoe ride and a drive-in movie. They can't remember the name of the movie but it starred Robert Mitchum.

When Ed joined the Navy, his mother was likely glad that he was stationed in Maryland. For some reason, she didn't like Ginnie. She wrote her son a letter saying that she didn't want Ed to marry Ginnie, "at least until some distant time in the future."

The more she tried to throw cold water on the romance, the more the young couple was determined to heat it up.

"We were writing a lot of mushy letters back and forth and missed each other quite a lot," says Ginnie.

Finally, Ed couldn't take it any more. He called her up at the house she was boarding at in Buffalo and said, "Come down here and marry me."

She didn't need to be asked twice. "Lickety split I got on a plane," she says. Her first plane ride was from Buffalo to Baltimore, where she took a bus to Bainbridge, the closest stop to the naval base.

It turned out, however, that they couldn't keep their wedding a secret from his family. They were both 20 and while Maryland laws said that she was old enough to marry, Ed would need his father's approval. Ginnie smiles. "We never heard how the conversation went between Ed's father and mother."

On September 23, 1957, Ed and Ginnie got married in the navy chapel. He was wearing his uniform and her dress, he says, "was greeny – bluish."

Ginnie shakes her head with long-practised patience. "It was coral with a navy collar," she tells him.

Ed quickly recovers himself. "I was too google-eyed and she kept the heart pounding."

In the roundabout way that life has of taking you places you never quite expected, the Muenzels moved to Canada on April 16, 1981. Ginnie says, "I had been here with my dad when I was 13. He took me out fishing and I was hooked." Today, she says, "Haliburton is one of the beautiful things that happened to us."

Although they had talked together about renewing their vows as a way of celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary, Ed felt that he still owed his wife a proper marriage proposal. Last Thursday, at a Community Care luncheon at the Win Yeung restaurant in Haliburton, Ed got up in front of the 50 people and told everyone that Community Care had forgotten an important date on its calendar of events. Then he crossed the room to be at his wife's side, got down on one knee and asked, "Will you marry me?"

The crowd broke into applause when she said yes.

And when they say "I do" on September 23, they'll really know what it means to be in love with the person you want to spend the rest of your life with.

Wilberforce resident puts election spotlight on families

GREG HOEKSTRA
Staff Reporter

Wilberforce resident Jake Pothaar is the latest in a line of local candidates to register for the October 10 provincial election.

Last week the Family Coalition Party of Ontario (FCP) announced that Pothaar would represent the party in the Haliburton-Victoria-Brock riding after Burnt River resident Rosemary Connell dropped out because of family reasons.

Born and raised in Toronto, Pothaar first moved to the Haliburton Highlands in the 1970s to work at the Browndale Residential Treatment Centre for Disturbed Children in West Guilford. When the centre folded a few years later, Pothaar helped to found a second group home in the Harcourt area, which operated from 1977 until 1988.

In more recent years, Pothaar has taught at both the Bancroft Christian Academy and the Tall Oaks Christian Academy in West Guilford while running his own construction business.

Though this is Pothaar's first time running for office he is no stranger to the local political scene. In recent years he has worked on a number of campaigns, including those of Diane Roblin-Lee, who ran for the FCP in its inaugural year of 1987, and Don Waterhouse, who ran in the 1993 federal election for the Christian Heritage Party.

As a husband and father of 10, Pothaar says his motivation for running is not necessarily to get elected but to bring family issues to the forefront of voters' minds during the campaign.

"To be honest, I don't have any political ambitions really but I felt it's very important to bring these issues into the discussion, because many people seem to feel that the economy or job situation should be the only issue we're talking about," he says.

"The things the FCP supports are very near and dear to my heart. The FCP looks at some of the issues that a lot of people may think aren't important, yet are key to both the Canadian past and future."

Among those key issues, says Pothaar, are protection of the traditional family, respect for human life (from conception to natural death), protection of the family farm, and parental responsibility for the proper education of their children.

By fostering a more family-driven society, Pothaar says that Ontario would see a decline in social ills such as poverty, drug abuse and crime.

"For a child to grow up in a strong family, it gives them values that will protect them through many of the decisions they will make in life," he says. "They will become strong decision-makers into their adulthood, and society will strengthen as a result."

Though Pothaar hopes to foster some discussion in the coming weeks, he also adds that he is realistic in his goals and the fact that he is running for a party that garnered only 1.3 per cent of the local vote in 2003.

"I don't see myself as a serious contender but I see that it's very important for me to bring key issues into the discussion," he says.

"For me, that's my only motivation but, as a party, the FCP does want to be a serious contender on the larger scale."

Election will be free of Freedom Party signs

JOHN CHAMBERS
Lindsay Post Editor

Business owner and long-time farmer Bill Denby is throwing his hat in the October 10 provincial election, announcing he will campaign for the Freedom Party in the Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock riding.

Don't expect to see any campaigns signs though. Denby said his decision to run isn't about signs or broad public appeal, but rather informing voters about the issues affecting the local riding.

"The Freedom Party is about freedom of choice," he said.

Denby said hydro, for example, should be under public control, and more should be done to be environmentally aware. "If all of the government buildings turned off their lights and computers at the end of the day, we wouldn't have an energy problem."

When it comes to education, Denby believes the people paying the bills should make the decision on where that money goes, not the government.

Throughout the campaign Denby will be attending all candidates debates in the riding but the only sign he will be utilizing is a home-made sign on his property which simply reads "Vote for Bill".

Running on the premise that candidates should want to represent their constituents and not be in politics for the money, Denby has also said if elected he will put 70 per cent of his annual salary into a special trust to be distributed to non-profit groups in the riding.

Denby believes the number one issue in the local riding is jobs, and more importantly ensuring jobs remain in the local community.

"Without jobs you can't pay for health, education, or anything else," he said.

Denby said that as the Member of Provincial Parliament, you have to know what is happening in the community and you have to make it your business to know.

"I grew up here and I have seen how things have changed over the years," he said. "If you want to keep jobs here you have to know what's going on. What annoys me is that a plant, like Fleetwood, announces they are closing and people say they didn't know - how could you not know?"

Denby suggested that plant closures and an exodus of jobs in Lindsay is a result of outside firms and companies not seeing the attractiveness in locating in the area. To that end, Denby said he couldn't be happier about the announcement of extending Highway 407.

The married father of two says education has to be a key focus and providing an opportunity for every student to receive a post-secondary education, regardless of financial ability, paramount among concerns. During the campaign, Denby will talk about the importance of creating incentives for new farmers to become involved in the industry and creating and providing real, sustainable employment opportunities for youth.

JOHN CHAMBERS/Special to The Echo

This is the only sign that Bill Denby plans to use in his campaign to become the riding's next MPP.

Staking claim

LAST WEEK, China earned the status of being the United States' number one trading partner, bumping Canada to second place. With a work force ready to work for low wages and the freedom of not having to spend too much money on environmental controls, China's manufacturing might has become official.

Even though Canada had long been on top of the list of countries that the U.S. relies on, it's not that we could have ever been described as a manufacturing giant. Our manufacturing base has been eroding for years, with many of our factory jobs being transferred to the U.S.. Instead, it's our natural resources which have always fueled our economy. We are blessed with an abundance of forest, rock and water – commodities that are in short supply elsewhere. Although we are no longer a nation of hewers of wood, we still get most of our money by selling our raw materials to other nations.

Uranium is one of those natural resources. The mineral is essential to the creation of nuclear power and Canada is a source of some of the highest grade uranium in the world. A look at the Toronto Stock Exchange reveals that many uranium mines are doing very well, especially now that China needs so much uranium to provide the power for all those factories that are usurping Canada's.

This space is not to argue the environmental merits of nuclear power and whether it is the best source of electricity (although much can be said about the advantages of it replacing the coal-powered plants that China relies so heavily on.) Nuclear energy relies on uranium and Canada is one of the best sources of uranium.

In the past mining exploration was basically unfettered since it was so important to find new sources of these minerals. But the old practices of allowing anyone to stake your property should not be allowed to continue without more checks and balances. It is inconceivable that in this day and age, someone can come onto your property and drive a few stakes into the ground to let you know they may one day mine it. And even though the federal government put six pages of ads in a July Echo to let property owners know that their land's mineral rights were up for sale, it's not as if the ads clearly stated what the threat was. The system is so archaic that it can no longer be justified.

If the high price of uranium makes re-opening the old uranium mines in the county feasible again, then that's a debate we all should be involved in. We would have to have more than assurances that the natural environment of the Highlands was protected as its natural resources are being extracted. Uranium mining in and of itself is not wrong. Being complacent about it is.

Our big decision

HERE I THOUGHT I've been living in a democracy all these years, but apparently not quite.

I've always thought our voting system was weird. I used to wonder about how the CBC could announce the winner of a federal election before a lot of the folks in Western Canada even got off work.

two-eight-six

I remember the year the NDP surprised everyone, including itself, by waking up the proud owners of a majority government in Ontario. And that it would soon have to actually try to do what it had been cavalierly promising. But what I remember wondering about was the fact that they had only something like 38 percent of the vote. How in the world could they gain a majority with a minority of the vote? But they did, because that's the way our "First Past the Post" voting system works.

This system, which we inherited from the motherland (Britain) way back when, seems to work in favour of regional strongholds and protects us from any outsiders (outsiders being anyone but our present political parties) who might bring some new fangled fresh ideas into the mix. And it has worked.

Or, not worked. The Green Party's half a million plus votes in the last election netted them exactly zero seats, while the Liberals in the four Atlantic provinces gained 20 seats with fewer than half a million votes. So all those Green votes represented nothing. Which is another problem that our new system will supposedly correct.

I'm talking federally here while the new system is being offered up only in Ontario for the moment. But it is felt that if it goes here, it will probably catch on throughout the country.

In 2005, a B.C. referendum voted down a new voting system by a very close margin during their last provincial election, where ironically, the Liberals gained 58 per cent of the seats with 46 per cent of the vote.

The system being put forward here in Ontario is known as the MMP (Mixed Member Proportional) system, which combines the old system of First Past the Post and a proportional representative system. We will make two choices on the ballet: one for our chosen representative, and one for a political party.

If MMP were to win the referendum here in Ontario, and then be picked up federally, it would mean some very big and exciting changes in old Ottawa and beyond. The Green Party would be small part, but at least part, of the government, and there might even be some new parties with new ideas spring up. The block Quebecois would probably be cut in half. We would find Liberals and New Democrats in Alberta, and Tories in the big cities. Yes, the times they would be a-changin', as Bob Dylan once warbled.

I'm sure some politicians look on this as a nightmare in the making, what with more women and minorities getting politically involved, and new parties popping up and making new noises, and generally giving the old guard a shake. Personally, I think it's high time we changed our democracy into a democracy. And the fact that many current politicians don't like the idea so much makes it even more attractive.

New season, new column

SUMMER IS FINALLY WINDING DOWN. You can see it in the trees as they transform to shades of yellows, ochres, and crimsons. You can feel it in nighttime temperatures that hover just above zero. You can even hear it as the high-pitched hymns of passing geese replace the roadside hum of departing vehicles.

steve galea

Autumn always brings change.

What better time, then, to present the first installment of my new column entitled Outside Chance? Rest assured, this title does not allude to the odds of me winning a "debate" with my wife or a basketball game with just about anyone over the age of 10. Instead, it refers to the opportunity that I think most of us crave – the chance to spend some free time outside doing what we love best.

So, in this space, each week, I'll chronicle all the important stuff – things like hunting, fishing, canoeing, hiking, and geo-caching to name a few. I'll tell stories of fine dogs, magical places, majestic animals, wild birds, and old traditions. You'll be introduced to people I have known forever as well as some I have met along the way. I'll pay homage to the bounty of nature as seen through the eyes of one very grateful outdoorsman. Sometimes the telling will be tinged with sentiment, other times fraught with silliness.

The truth is, I'm not really sure where I'm going with this. But my passions are tied to the outdoors – the sight of a buck in autumn never ceases to jump start my heart; a flight of wood ducks at dawn, to me, is just as good as it gets; and brook trout, especially at this time of year, can easily be counted among God's most beautiful creations.

This column is for anyone who feels the same way.

One benefit of hunting

I was duck hunting with my son this past Saturday on the opening day in the Central District for waterfowl – which is a fancy way of saying on a backwoods pond not too far from here. Ryan, who is 13, has come duck hunting with me before, but this time was special. You see he passed his Hunter's Safety Course and federal firearms training earlier this year, thus earning the badge and licence of an Apprentice Hunter.

As such, Ryan is now able to legally use the shotgun while under my supervision. While some people might blanch at this scenario, both the boy and I couldn't have been prouder. Ryan handled the firearm safely and responsibly, in accordance with the excellent training provided by Hunting Safety Instructor Brian Austen in Minden.

Rest assured, we were no immediate threat to the duck population. Despite our pre-season scouting, the birds were, for the most part, elsewhere. By day's end, our group of friends downed a grand total of three ducks over that little pond – including one beautiful drake wood duck. But I don't think that's what Ryan will remember most.

I think he'll remember the solemn responsibility he felt when carrying that firearm for the first time. I hope he'll also recall the trust we placed in him and the way he was welcomed into the group by those older hunters he was with.

These days, many teens suffer from a disconnect with their elders. Hunting, fishing, and other outdoors activities are excellent ways to patch those wires. I think that's why so many of us are passionate about these things. For within their framework, we have built relationships with our mentors and stored incredible memories that would not have been experienced otherwise. And, out of those experiences emerges a respect for others, the world around us, and self.

Oh, and it's a whole lot more fun than losing at basketball.

I can be reached at TheOutdoorLife@aol.com. Drop a note if the mood strikes.

pic of the past

In this week's Pic of the Past, Wm. Gorrie poses by the back wall of the Gorrie home, Highlands Street, Haliburton, with bicycle, circa 1910. Presumably this was his own pleasure cycle. As an employee in the store of his father – general merchant Daniel Gorrie – the absence of a basket or carrier rack would indicate that it wasn't used for store deliveries. The dapper young man must have cut a dashing figure while cycling on the rough local roads of the day. This photo is part of the Gorrie collection on display at the Haliburton Museum.

Enforce smoking rules

To the Editor:

In last week's Echo there was a story about five Haliburton high school students charged with possession of marijuana. In the story you quote Principal Gary Brohman: "The message is 'Don't do it and if you do do it, you'll be suspended.'"

Apparently Principal Brohman has double standards for his students. He allows cigarette-smoking students to break the law every day by allowing them to smoke on school board property and some of them are even too young to buy cigarettes legally.

I think it's time the school followed the law in every regard - NO Smoking should apply to all your students legal or otherwise.

Bring back the old rules: no smoking from the westerly end of the bridge to County Road 1 on either side of the road. And be damned to the people that complain about students smoking on the side of the road. Further to the ones that say students should be allowed to smoke in Sam Slick (Thomas Chandler Haliburton) Park, the town councils of other areas are making it against the law for anyone to smoke in their parks. Maybe our council will have to do the same.

MMP goes long way to solving problems

To the Editor:

In the article entitled "An X for reform" in the Echo of Sept. 11, two criticisms emerge regarding the proposal for a Mixed Member Proportional system.

First, there is concern that the constituency MPPs would have an even larger number of constituents in their geographical ridings than at present. Ontario already is the most poorly represented provincial jurisdiction in Canada by a considerable margin. The Conservative government for the 1999 election decreased the number of ridings from 130 to 103 so that the average size of a riding is 113,647. Of the 10 provinces, excluding the territories, Quebec is next with 60,369. The median electorate of a riding is Nova Scotia where each MPP represents 17,557, but the average is about 35,000 reflecting the fact that Canada's provinces vary greatly in population.

The proposed reform does not address this particular problem, but it will go a little way to correct it. The legislature for this election will provide 107 MPPs simply due to Ontario's growing population. The reform recommends about 30 percent of the legislature be list or members-at large; that is about 32 additional members if enacted for 2011. This increase will not greatly reduce the number of constituents served by an MPP. Ontario will not even come close to Quebec in this regard. We do need to increase the number of MPPs, whether from ridings or the list to get good representation. The proposal's main thrust, however, is to make every vote count by giving a voter two chances to express their priorities. It should not be criticized for a very separate problem.

Every vote counts with proposed electoral reform

The next criticism revolves around the creation of a list of candidates by the various parties. Again, this is a separate problem the Citizen's Assembly did not address. This nomination process is very poorly understood and few participate in it. I would like to find a statistic that reports what percentage of the electorate maintains an active membership in a political party and participates in a nomination meeting. It may be as low 2 per cent of the electorate. The reform proposal states that the Chief Electoral Officer will require each party to describe how their list was created before the election.

We are left with the final criticism that did not appear in the article, the high probability of coalition governments. I will simply say that experience in other political jurisdictions indicates that coalition governments are stable over their entire mandate and able to enact their programmes. I will assert, however, that it is better to give alternative views a fair voice in the legislature where it counts than to artificially stifle them. The proposal gives both the views of individual voters fair expression and the views of parties.

Green Party opposes uranium staking

To the Editor:

The local Green Party constituency association has been working closely with the landowner who has been most vocal in opposing uranium claim-staking in Haliburton County. We have made our non-existent (or ambiguous) rights under the 1880 Mining Act a high priority issue, linking it with the resurgence of uranium mining in general. In conformity with the platform of the Green Party of Ontario, which calls for a revision of the Mining Act as well as a moratorium on uranium mining in the Province, our Constituency Association has passed a resolution proposing that:

1) The Attorney General of Ontario impose strict liability and financial accounting standards on all past and present nuclear and related contractors and agencies;

2) The Ontario Power Authority and Environment Canada jointly establish a website together with a travel fund, so that citizens concerned with or affected by the nuclear industry might communicate directly with one another;

3) The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources together with Health Canada establish a local information centre that provides access to the wide range of documentation concerning the health and safety risks faced by communities and workers involved int he uranium industry;

4) Sir Sandford Fleming College receive adequate provincial funding to train local people in monitoring radionuclides and chemical toxins consequent upon mineral extraction and processing in their region; and

5) The Township councils be encouraged to use their good offices in communicating with and linking together all those persons, groups and communities who are concerned with the prospect of uranium mining in this constituency.

MMP is what democracy is all about

To the Editor:

Last week's editorial on electoral reform stated that people who place a priority on voting for a candidate may not like the Mixed Member Proportional system because the ridings would be larger and therefore they would not see their MPP at as many events as they do now. I don't know that this is a huge concern for the average person. What the editorial did not mention is that our riding may in fact get an extra MPP. With the MMP electoral system a party that has fewer seats in Queen's Park than what they should have, due to the percentage of the popular vote they received, would top up their seats from their candidates list. These MPPs need a riding too and their political party may drop them in a riding such as ours. This would be a great strategy if you were the NDP or Liberals who rarely get a member elected from here. This would give them a chance to show what they can do for our riding.

The Citizens Assembly had a look at various electoral models and this is the one they overwhelmingly chose. The Ontario Teachers Federation also supports the MMP system because it is fairer. Many people will remember that Bob Rae and the NDP won a majority government with something like 33 per cent of the popular vote. This would not happen with the MMP system. The MMP system has been used in Germany and other countries for years as it better represents the will of the people and this is what democracy is all about isn't it?

Spills give uranium mines a bad reputation

In 1974, at an Elliott Lake uranium mine, work was stopped because of unsafe working conditions. Many of the mining employees were diagnosed with cancer and silicosis due to radioactivity from the uranium. In all there are more than 200 names on the Elliott Lake Uranium Miners Memorial, with space, unfortunately, for those who will die in the future from the same ailments.

But that was then, right?

Elliott Lake is also known for having the most uranium tailings, which is the waste left after ore has been extracted from rock. In Elliott Lake more than 100 tons of tailing waste has been created and that waste continues to be radioactive for hundreds of years.

According to the Pembina Institute, a group designed to advance sustainable energy solutions through innovative research, education, consulting and advocacy, 85 per cent of the radioactive elements contained in the original uranium ore end up in the tailings, and as of 2003, there were 213 million tons of uranium mill tailings in storage at 24 tailings sites across Canada with enough material to fill the Rogers Centre (formerly SkyDome) approxmately 100 times.

And there is quite the history of spillage. Uranium, in all of its aspects just doesn't have the same reputation as, say, a cuddly bunny or wind power:

- In Chalk River, Ontario in 1958, an irradiated fuel element broke and a nuclear plant caught fire. 400,000 square metres around the building were contaminated.
- In July, 1976, radiation levels in some buildings in Port Hope were 100 times more than a safe levels and bone marrow abnormalities were found in town residents.
- The next October Port Hope was said to be 'walking a tightrope' by an environment ministry official. Uranium leaked from the Altered Resources Ltd refinery into untreated sewage at a sewage treatment plant and had built up to more than 75,000 cubic feet.
- A leak of about two million litres of radioactive and heavy metal contaminated water, enough to fill three Olympic-size swimming pools, occurred at the Rabbit Lake, Sask., uranium mine and mill area on November 7, 1989. The water burst from a faulty valve on a 10 km stretch of pipeline carrying runoff and ground water seepage from the Collin's Bay open pit uranium mine to the Rabbit Lake uranium mill. The spill was not noticed for 14 hours, even though three inspectors were on site.
- A total of 153 spills were reported at three uranium mines in Saskatchewan between 1981-1989. Amoc mining reported 62 spills, Cameco 48 and Key Lake 43. Three quarters of these were estimated to be radioactive. The spill totals were requested after Cameco's Rabbit Lake mine reported a spill of two million litres of radium and arsenic-contaminated water.
- In August 1993, two million litres of contaminated water spilled from a tailings site at Rio Algom's Stanleigh mine in Elliot Lake. The spill took place as a result of a power failure and Rio Algom was charged by the Atomic Energy Control Board with one count of failure to provide appropriate training for its employees and one count of failure to prevent the spill under "reasonably foreseeable circumstances". The radiological and chemically contaminated water spilled into McCabe Lake.

While history reminds us of the burdens involved in the mining of uranium, the necessity of power in everyday life continues to drive the need to explore for uranium, a key component in the production of nuclear power.

Today approximately 50 per cent of the electrical power generated in Ontario comes from nuclear sources and approximately 15 per cent of Canada's hydro comes from nuclear reactors where uranium is used as a fuel.

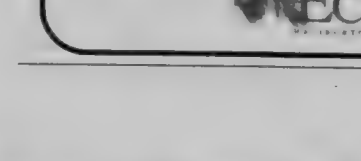
Too Good to Waste! Réduire. c'est agir!
Waste Reduction Week in Canada
October 15th - 21st, 2007
Let's go the extra mile!
Last year, Algonquin Highlands recycled 96,660 blue boxes full of material. If placed end to end, these boxes would stretch 35 miles, from Carnarvon to the MCS recycling depot in Bracebridge! Well done!
This year let's go the extra mile — if we all recycled just 10% more, we could reach the Bracebridge town centre!
Celebrate Waste Reduction Week in Canada. Visit www.wrwcanada.com for ideas on how you can use fewer resources in your daily activities at home, work and play.


Thanks for helping to keep Algonquin Highlands clean and green.

Rules are more stringent today but critics say enforcement is lax

scious, John Steele, a media relations officer with the Ministry of the Environment, says there are more stringent standards.

"If you go back to the days when uranium mining was is its infancy, things have changed," says Steele, "provincially and federally."

Stephen Hazell, the executive director of the Sierra Club, an environmental group, isn't so sure that environmental laws have changed all that much.

"One thing that's certainly happened is that we've stopped enforcing [the laws]," Hazell says. "There's very little enforcement of violations of the certain environmental acts and that applies provincially and federally."

He feels that there was a time back in the '80s when the provincial government was very serious about enforcing pollution law but that's not the case any more.

As covered in the land rights article in last week's Echo the mining laws are among Ontario's oldest.

"This issue of the free entry system of mining in Ontario has been an issue for a long time," Hazell said. "But most mining has been done in places where people don't own cottages, or they're not residing in little towns. They're in more remote areas on Crown land, so it's not often even an issue."

But in Highlands East land is being staked for uranium on privately-owned land and Hazell said residents understand that once the exploration companies start mucking about in the ore bodies, the release of radioactive isotopes enter into the natural ecosystem and that's not good for the price of land and it's not good for people's health.

If high-grade uranium is found, Hazell thinks the chances that mining will happen is pretty good.

"I'm speculating a bit but it really all depends on what the local community wants. If the locals are really dead set against it, then you probably have a 50/50 chance of stopping it.

"And once the [mining] industry gets established, it's going to get even harder [to fight] because they're going to have that much more economic clout," said Hazell. If the issue ever comes to public consultation and a yes or no vote Hazell said, "It's a very, very, important decision for the people in Haliburton [Highlands East]."

The Pembina Institute says "Environment Canada and Heath Canada have concluded that effluent from uranium mining and milling operations in Canada meets the definition of a toxic substance for the purpose of the Canadian Environmental Protection Act." And "operating and now-closed uranium tailings management facilities have been associated with severe pollution of surface and ground water with radionuclides (principally uranium), heavy metals and conventional pollutants."

Natural Resources Canada runs a program called the Mine Environment Neutral Drainage (MEND), which operates out of the CANMET Energy Technology Centre in Ottawa. On the government website, it says that, "Acidic drainage is recognized as the largest environmental liability facing the mining industry and, to a lesser extent, the public through abandoned mines."

The program has been implemented to develop and apply new technologies to prevent and control acidic drainage. The site says that tremendous progress has been made and the target is for new mines to open without long-term concerns about acidic drainage upon closure of the mine.

Perhaps one day the world will agree that a more environmentally friendly way to produce power should be implemented. For the time being environmental and human health concerns will continue to be on the minds of Highlands East residents as they await news of possible uranium mining.

Correction

In last week's front-page article, 'Whose land is it anyway?' Linda Herard was incorrectly identified. She is employed by the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines not the Land Registry office in Minden.

As well, the government ads placed in the Echo are in the July 10 issue. Copies are available at the Echo office in Haliburton.

RETAIL BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY FOR AN AGENCY STORE IN LCBO RFP# 2007- 138 EAGLE LAKE
LCBO RFP# 2007- 139 WEST GUILFORD

An excellent business opportunity is now available to established retailers in Eagle Lake and West Guilford.
The Liquor Control Board of Ontario (LCBO) is seeking a responsible, customer-focused retailer to operate an LCBO Agency Store in Eagle Lake and West Guildford.
To qualify, the applicant must have an existing, currently operating retail business in the community and commit to operating the Agency store within established LCBO guidelines. To facilitate the sale of beverage alcohol products, the operator may be required to enter into separate commercial agreements with the LCBO and domestic beer suppliers.
The successful applicant will also be required to participate in a special LCBO server-training program to ensure the responsible sale of beverage alcohol products.
Since 1962, the LCBO has authorized more than 200 Agency stores to serve communities which have requested service but where the local population is too small to support a regular LCBO or beer store. These Agency stores are operated by local retailers within their existing retail business. Agency store contracts are normally awarded for a five-year term. In communities where there is currently an Agency store, as the contract nears expiry the LCBO will take into consideration the fact that new businesses in the community may have been established and will allow an opportunity for all businesses in the community to compete for the next five-year term.
Operating an LCBO Agency Store provides a retailer with an excellent opportunity to increase revenue and attract customers while providing local residents with beverage alcohol services. Agency stores also deliver economic benefits to the community in many cases through job creation and increased customer traffic for local merchants.
Interested businesses must request by FAX/Mail the application package for this competition before end of business day, Tuesday September 25, 2007 and must quote the following information:

RFP# 2007- 138 Eagle Lake

Request for Application Package
Manager of Purchasing, LCBO

Fax: 416-864-6853

In order to be considered for this business opportunity, applicants must submit to LCBO Purchasing a completed proposal in the required format before the closing date and time, Tuesday October 9, 2007, 3 pm local time. Late submissions will not be accepted and will be returned unopened.

Unless we fix Ontario's electricity system, it's the economy that's in for a shock.

For the last decade, our electricity system has been in turmoil. Not surprisingly, our economy is facing stiffer competition and we're also losing manufacturing jobs. And then there's the environment.

The time for talk is over. Action must be taken to upgrade our existing transmission infrastructure. We can reduce smog emissions by finishing the retrofitting of our coal stations with proven clean coal technology. Greenhouse gas emissions can be reduced by refurbishing existing nuclear units, building new ones and by using biomass at our coal stations.

However, if we carry on with ideologically motivated projects, you can expect a different kind of shock.

Higher electricity bills.

Art is always more fun in Plein Air

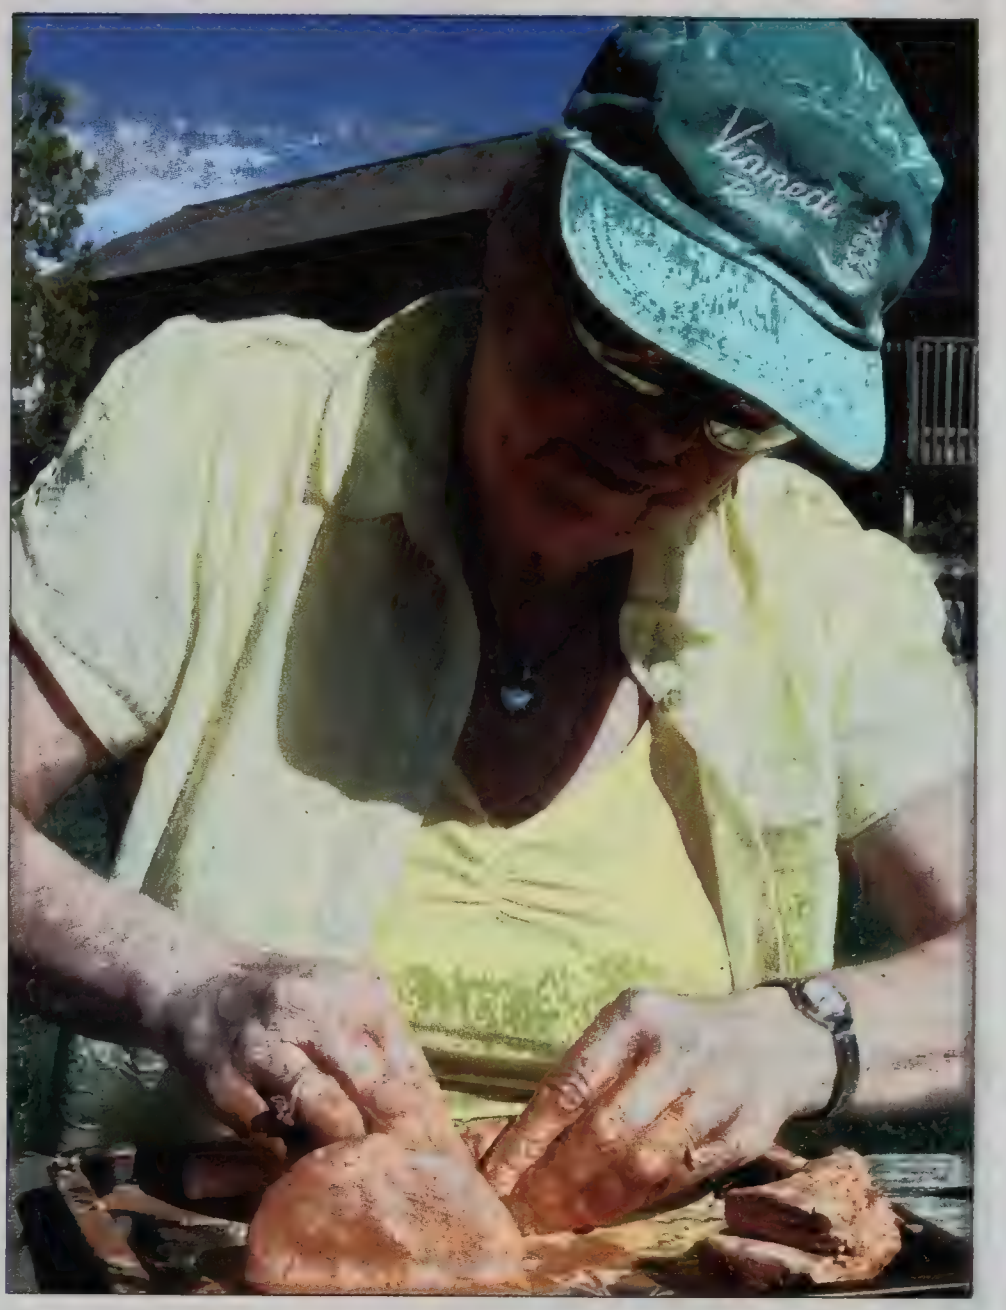
A group of intrepid painters gathered in Head Lake Park and around the world on Saturday, September 8 for International Plein Air Painters. Hosted by Laurie Jones and the Rails End Gallery, artists of all skill levels took to the outdoors to experiment with watercolours, clay, pastels, and crayons.

Haliburton resident Dorothy Walker loves to travel and paint using watercolours.



Playing with clay is Karen Duncombe of Haliburton who came out on Saturday to support the gallery. Next year she and gallery director Laurie Jones want to see the park full of aspiring artists. However, you don't have to be an artist to take part. It's all for fun. A group also gathers on Thursday at the gallery; call for details.

Bringing high speed Internet to Haliburton County

Bell's General Manager explains the progress that's been made and what's yet to come

JIM NEUBAUER

Bell General Manager - Ontario East

Increasing access to high speed Internet service in non-urban areas is a focus for Bell in Haliburton County. We continually invest in the quality and reach of our network to ensure that we extend this critical service to as many people as is technologically and economically feasible.

We have recently made great strides in the area surrounding Haliburton Village, opening access to over 2,000 homes, an increase of almost 40 per cent over existing access in Haliburton and Minden.

The response from this community has been outstanding! Clearly people have been waiting for high quality and reliable high speed Internet service; the kind that Bell's Total Internet Service provides.

Our focus has been to make this technology available quickly to as many people as possible and then promptly inform people that it is available. Once we have a large part of the community covered we communicate broadly that it is available so people can take advantage of it as soon as possible.

Unfortunately, due to the nature of the technology, and speed with which we are rolling out the service, sometimes there are small pockets within communities that may not have access at the same time as the majority. This delay is normally no longer than a week or two.

The following communities now have access to Bell's Sympatico Total Internet high speed service: West Guilford, Eagle Lake, Gooderham, Kinmount, Carnarvon, Haliburton and Minden. Areas of Kennisis Lake and Cranberry Lake will both have service by the end of September.

The boundaries of our communities do not line up exactly with high speed Internet service availability. In an attempt to clarify where Sympatico Total Internet service is available, the following is a more detailed definition of the areas now covered:

West Guilford (400 homes within approx. 5 Km of the village)

Eagle Lake (500 homes within approx 5 km of City Rd 6 and City Rd 14)

Gooderham (275 homes within 5 km of the village)

Kinmount (300 homes within 5 km of the village)

Carnarvon (500 homes along Boshkung Lake and Hwy 35 North of village and south of Buckslide Road) ration is required. For instance, the students were first put through their paces on the set. Then they were sent away for a few hours. There was nothing for them to do but chat and relax.

When they were called back, the track for the camera had been installed and the director was ready to yell "Action."

Tom Regina, the teacher in charge of the students' participation, says "the sitting around isn't always fun but they've been doing well. They're following direction and being very attentive."

Camp Rock stars the Jonas Brothers and is about a young teen's desire to attend a rock music camp. Above, actors wait for the cameras to roll, while at left, they take some time out between scenes.

Last week the students worked on a dance scene and a fire pit scene.

Some teens, including Regina's daughter Jocelyn and son Leo, responded to a casting call for extras. "Leo got a whole day of bass guitar practice standing under a tree," he father laughs.

Brohman is pleased with the partnership. The arts students are getting a first-hand view of some of the careers available to them in the film industry and the school will receive an honorarium for their participation.

Steve Heming of Camp Wanakita took all the activity in stride. Hollywood or not, "We just treated them like any other group." The teens acting as extras might have been thrilled to work with the Jonas Brothers but most of the staff didn't know who they were.

The Camp Rock production crew left Wanakita on Saturday and is now setting up at Camp Kilcoo to resume filming.

West Guilford residents celebrate autumn nuptials

west guilford

Eleanor Cooper

A pleasant reception for Ernie Cooper and Julie Horrobin was held at the Centre on September 15 in honour of their wedding on August 18 in Orillia. Julie's mother, Barbara, her sister, and her son, Kenny were some of the bride's family in attendance. The groom's parents, Basle and Joan Cooper were present, as well as their daughter, Cheryl with her husband, Tim Priest, their daughter, Crystal. Esther Sipe, Ernie's sister as well as her son, Josh and daughters, Amber and Darcy joined the celebration. Joan's sister, Bernice (Redner) with her husband, Claude Fader came from Blenheim, their son, David and his wife Sarah, and their daughter, Janice and husband Dennis, Sam and Dorothy Rivers, Don and Ruth Wood, Doris Cooper, Perry and Kay Morrison. Blythe and Lila (formerly Coopers), daughters of Trevor and Ruby, Pearl Moon, and several others made up the company of well-wishers for this happy occasion. Wendy Rivers was in charge of the delicious food offered to the crowd. Continued good wishes go out to the happy couple.

St. George's Anglican Church's Barbecue and Beef supper will be served this year at the Centre on September 22 instead of at the church in town.

Our company this week included Ruth and John Bosman, Don Cooper and his sister, Janet Robb all of Woodstock or Innerkip area. The couples spent the weekend at the hunt camp.

Luke Cooper spent part of the weekend in Ottawa with his parents from Riverview, N.B. who had come for a (Masonic) Scottish Rite occasion in Ottawa.

Wendy Hicks of Pine Lake and Wendy Wood of Carnarvon's Peterson Road have woven two beautifully patterned cotton coverlets in gorgeous colouring on the 100" loom. They achieved this in two weeks (in contrast to Marjorie's and my months) by dint of their superior expertise and experience, working every day for at least 8 hours at the project at the Pritchard House.

Jean Pugh is in Haliburton Hospital at the present and expects to undergo tests in Peterborough over the new few weeks. We wish her better health soon.

Project has encountered some obstacles, but service is ready in most areas: Neubauer

In addition, by the end of September the following will also be available:

Kennisis Lake (300 homes within approx 5 km of City Rd 7 and South Kennisis Lake Rd and 75 more homes along Southshore Rd)

Cranberry Lake (100 homes in the area)

We have moved very quickly to bring high speed service to the Haliburton area and communicate its availability. This work is ongoing. Due to the high demand, there have been isolated cases where the network technology has been built while steps are still being taken to ensure the service is running properly throughout our various systems.

At times, this has resulted in customers being sent a modem and not being able to connect, or, incorrectly being told that the service is not available in their area. Your local Bell team has been resolving these issues as they arise and do apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

I am pleased to say that all customers that had informed us of issues have had them addressed.

Thank you for your support and understanding as we continue to improve access to high speed Internet service to the Haliburton and Minden areas.

Feel free to contact to me if you have any questions or concerns on the availability of our Sympatico Total Internet High Speed Service.

For those still experiencing difficulties or for those wanting more information on the project's timeline please contact:

Help kick off Legion Week

legion br. 624

Mel Smith
448-3640

September 16, to September 22 marks Legion Week and the work of Branch 624 is a well-kept secret. Legion members are visible on occasions such as Remembrance Day and Colour Parades.

Legion Week is a time set aside each year to promote The Royal Canadian Legion and attract new members. It's open to the public and we encourage members of the community to come out and celebrate Legion Week with us.

Young people from Wilberforce School are encouraged to enter the Legion's annual poster, literary and essay contests. Entries will be based on a Remembrance theme reminding the children that the freedom they enjoy today was won through the loss of many young lives such as their own. To all Legion Members, the Early Bird Membership Drive is now in affect. This means that you can purchase your membership at a reduced price of $38.00 until November 30th. After that date the price will go back to $40.00. The other good thing about the Early Bird Draw is that one of our members will have his/her name drawn to receive a free membership.

There are many great events however; just like the weather, event schedules may change and more events could be added as the month progresses. Just remember everyone is welcome to come out and join in or just sit and talk to friends and enjoy a sports event on the TV.

Sept. 17 - 7 p.m. Open Bid Euchre; Sept. 18 - 7 p.m. General Meeting; Sept. 19 - 7 p.m. Darts; Sept. 20 - 1 p.m. Euchre; Sept. 21 - 8 p.m. Honours and Awards; Sept. 22 -Veterans Dinner - Cocktails 6 p.m: dinner 6:30 p.m; Oct 6 10-2 p.m. Turkey Shoot at Popcorn Pond 12 guage and 410 shoots; Oct. 14 - Service Course at the Cardiff Legion 10:00 a.m.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

CO-SIGNING IS SERIOUS BUSINESS

QUESTION: My son and his wife want to buy their first home. They don't have enough money for the downpayment or combined annual income to qualify for the loan and asked us to co-sign the mortgage. What is the risk?

ANSWER: Co-signing a mortgage is not a casual event. If the loan is defaulted, the co-signers are fully liable for the debt. Even with a parental co-signer, first-time buyers may be required to put up 5 to 10% of the purchase price with their own money. Some lenders also insist that the co-signers also appear as co-owners. This can lead to significant issues which require legal advice, a written agreement and a will for each co-signer.

CO-SIGNING a loan is serious business. If the loan is defaulted, the co-signers are liable.

Community prepares to celebrate its trails

Annual event brings together ATVers, horseback riders, and even one cyclist

community news

harcourt

Valerie Smith

I heard an elderly gentleman mention that fall is a season that is followed immediately by looking forward to spring. As one gets older I fully concur with his philosophy. However, fall is also a special time and carries more vibrant colours than any other season. Mother Nature has already turned her hand to giving a dusting of magic to some of the trees changing them from green to hues of golds and reds.

Only the fall season is filled with the sounds of scampering feet across dry leaves as chattering squirrels and chipmunks scurry about hiding their winter stores of food. In the fall, as in the spring season, the honking sounds of flocks of geese add to the woodland rhapsody.

It is also in the fall season each year that the Celebration of Trails - IB&O Mixer - takes place. This is always a fun day and it will be held this year on September 29 from 9:30 to 2:00 at Tory Hill and the IB&O Rail Trail. It is a great way to enjoy the camaraderie of other trail users and an excellent way to spend a fall day.

At the present time there are 10 horseback riders and 10 ATV entrants signed up for this fun scavenger relay race. Teams consist of one horse rider, a runner/hiker, one ATV and one cyclist. The distance that cyclists travel is approximately 20 km while hikers cover approximately 5 km along the old rail trail.

The IB&O rail trail is a memorable one as you pass by bogs, trees clawed by bears, beaver huts, bulrushes and forests sporting their mantle of bright, autumn colours. There is a photo contest so please bring along your digital cameras and for the geocachers bring along your GPS receivers to locate the hidden caches.

Make up your own team of one horse rider, a runner/hiker, one ATV, one cyclist or come along and you will be set up in a team. The cost is $60 per team or $15 per person which includes a barbecue lunch. Mel Smith will be on hand to cook your hamburger or hot dog just the way you like it.

Mark this event on your calendar and join in the festivities on this fun family day. For more information or to register please contact Tammy Donaldson at 705 448-1751 or info@southalgonquintrails.com.

GPS news flash - Mel and I have joined the multitude of GPS (Global Positioning Systems) techies and have learnt that Elephant Lake Road actually becomes Peterson Road at the juncture of the Kingscote Lake Access Point Road/Pine Grove Point and County Road 10.

County Road 10 is located one kilometre outside of Harcourt and is better known as either Elephant Lake Road or Peterson Road depending on your location on the road.

The Community Care Haliburton Diner's Club luncheon held at the Martinwood Resort was well attended and the nicely prepared lunch was enjoyed by all. As of September 1 the Martinwood Resort came under new management and the dining room is again open for diners' pleasure.

Warm wishes for a swift and speedy recovery are extended to Lorne Wagg.

If you have any item of interest to share and you wish to submit it for the next feature of the Harcourt and Community News, please e-mail vsmith.rhapsody@sympatico.ca or call 705 448 3640.

Annual golf tourney brings out curling club members

community news

wilberforce

Hilda Clark

448-2018

The Wilberforce Curling Club's annual Jack Ward Memorial Golf Tournament took place on Saturday September 15 at Cedar Meadows Golf Course. Participants in this mixed best ball event were hardy golfers carrying on in spite of varied weather. In top spot at the end of play were the team of Lynnette Clegg, Joyce Shaw, Tracey Lee Green and Daryl Sands, who tied with the team of Len Thornbury,Fred Thomson and Grayson Thomson. Organizers declared both teams winners. Colleen Ward presented the trophy to the winners.

Back at the Curling Club all players received prizes. Special awards went to Lynnette Clegg for the shot nearest the hole by a woman, to Mark Beenen for the longest drive by a man and to Tracey Lee Green for the farthest shot by a woman. Before the awards time everyone enjoyed a fine meal and a good time together.

Children have been having a fun time at the Wilberforce Library on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 8 p.m.. This Story Hour has included stories told and read, puppets, crafts and of course taking out books to read at home. This program will continue throughout the fall season. Thanks to the volunteers who have been very helpful to staff in providing these excellent sessions. Joyce Bowman called to let us know that her 22nd Christmas Craft Sale will be on November 3 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m at the Lloyd Watson Centre. That is the first Saturday in November. Vendors should book early for this popular sale by calling 705 448-2622 or 1125.

Looking for a nourishing tasty lunch at a reasonable cost? Then try the Loonie Lunch at St. Margaret's Anglican Church on Wednesday, September 26 between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.. There will be soup and bread, tea and coffee and a variety of sweets. And if you don't have a loonie come anyway. The draw for the ACW's beautiful Dresden Plate Quilt will take place at this event.

Need help with using your computer and/or the internet? Aaron Berning is back at our Library at the CAP (Community Access Program) site to help you. Call the Library to book time with him on Thursday, Friday or Saturday afternoons or drop in and take a chance he might be free. And browse the book shelves while you are there.

Pfeffernusse is a German(esque) confection. That was the theme chosen by trumpeter/pianist/vocalist Guy Few for the concert with pianist Stephanie Mara on Saturday September 15 at the Northern Lights Pavilion in Haliburton. Several from the Wilberforce area were part of the audience which was wonderfully entertained by these talented musicians. The program for this second in the Concert Series included selections for trumpet and piano by Richard Strauss, Oskar Bohme and Karl Pilss and four hand piano pieces by W A Mozart, Felix Mendelssohn and Lord Berners. The choice of music, its delivery and the informative and delightfully humorous introductions by Mr. Few made for a stimulating yet relaxing evening. This is the 27th year that the people of Haliburton County have been provided with exceptional performances in this Haliburton Concert Series. Appreciation is extended to the volunteer committees that have arranged these concerts. Serving on the current committee are Sandy Valentine, Joan Stinson, Marion Hare, Cathy Boake, Bill Hare, Jean Contois, Ray Contois, Lorraine Semple and Jeanne Anthon.

The Seniors Club has started meeting again after a summer break. You are welcome to join them on Tuesdays at noon at the Lloyd Watson Centre.

It was good to see Barrie Wood recently at the Stratford Festival singing, dancing and performing a solid speaking part in Oklahoma as Andrew Carnes, the father of Ado Annie. One is always impressed with all the talented performers at that festival who can move from Shakepeare to Oscar Wilde ,Edward Albee, John Steinbeck and the musicals. And adapt to any one of the four theatres there. Many of the shows run until the end of October so there is still time to take in one or two performed by mostly Canadian performers.
